FROM FUN TO FAULT: LEGAL FACTS ON TRAMPOLINE ACCIDENTS

WHEN THE FUN TURNS DANGEROUS: TRAMPOLINE PARK INJURIES

Trampoline parks may seem like a fun way to stay active, but they come with serious risks.

Each year, children and adults suffer injuries ranging from sprains and fractures to concussions and spinal cord damage. Unsafe equipment, overcrowded spaces, and lack of supervision can all contribute to these accidents. Even with waivers, you may still be able to successfully bring a claim. Don't let a moment of fun turn into a long-term injury—know the risks and your options.

Legal Leaps: Understanding Trampoline Park Liability

A fun day at the Trampoline Park turned into a nightmare for one local family when their child suffered a broken leg. Our investigation uncovered serious safety and design issues that caused or contributed to the injury

YES – a waiver was signed

NO – that didn't stop us from fighting for justice

Even if you signed a waiver, you may still have legal rights.

Trampoline Parks and recreational facilities still have a duty to keep their guests safe– especially children.

At Alpizar Law, we fight for families when preventable injuries happen. If you or your child has been hurt, don't assume you have no options. Call us today.
