UNEXPECTED AND UNSAFE: FINDING FOREIGN OBJECTS IN FOOD

From Fork to Lawsuit: Foreign Objects in Food Explained

Finding a foreign object or suffering from food contamination can quickly turn a meal into a medical emergency. Whether it's a piece of plastic, metal, glass, or harmful bacteria, these incidents can lead to serious injuries or illness—and often result from negligence by food manufacturers, restaurants, or distributors.

If you or a loved one has been harmed by something that shouldn't have been in your food, it's important to preserve evidence, seek medical attention, and contact an experienced attorney right away. At Alpizar Law, we understand how these cases affect your health and peace of mind. Call us today to discuss your legal options and protect your rights.
